1 INTRODUCTION

2 In their opening summary judgment brief, Plaintiffs stated unequivocally that Counts
3 2 and 4 of the Second Amended Complaint do not assert a claim for medical negligence but,
4 instead, assert a claim for medical battery: “Plaintiffs’ common law claim is for medical battery,
5 not negligence.” Pls.’ Revised Resp. to Defs.’ Mot. for Summ. J. & Pls.’ Revised Cross-Mot.
6 for Summ. J. (“Pls. Revised Mem.”) at 21. Then, after Defendants’ response and reply brief
7 explained the deficiencies in Plaintiffs’ claim for medical battery, Defs.’ Resp. in Opp’n to Pls.’
8 Cross-Mot. for Summ. J. & Reply in Further Supp. of Their Mot. for Summ. J. (“Defs.’ Resp.
9 Mem.”) at 15-17, Plaintiffs’ reply brief attempted to revive the medical negligence claim that
10 Plaintiffs had previously disavowed: “Plaintiffs will decide whether to present a negligence or 11 battery claim to the jury at the appropriate time, unless the Court’s rulings on the pending
12 motions requires [sic] something different,” Pls.’ Reply at 9.
13

15 On March 21, 2024, the Court entered an order noting the change in Plaintiffs’ position
16 and authorizing Defendants “to file a Supplemental Brief regarding Petitioners’ argument that 17 they still might claim medical negligence.” Order at 2. Defendants respectfully submit this 18 supplemental brief in accordance with the Court’s order.
19

20 Defendants maintain that Plaintiffs have expressly waived any claim for medical 21 negligence by disavowing it in their opening brief. But even if the Court were to allow a
22 medical negligence claim to proceed, Defendants would be entitled to summary judgment on 23 Counts 2 and 4 because Plaintiffs have failed to provide competent evidence to establish the 24 necessary elements of a medical negligence claim. This case is 1,351 days old, discovery is 25 closed, and Plaintiffs have offered no qualified medical testimony or affidavit to sustain a 26 medical negligence claim.
27

1 ARGUMENT

2 I. Plaintiffs Have Waived Their Medical Negligence Claim.

3 Plaintiffs attempt to preserve for trial a medical negligence claim. Pls.’ Reply at 9. But
4 they have waived their right to do so. “Waiver is the voluntary and intentional relinquishment
5 of a known right or such conduct as warrants an inference of the relinquishment of such 6 right.” Cavallo v. Phx. Health Plans, Inc., 254 Ariz. 99, 105 ¶ 22, 518 P.3d 759, 765 (Ariz. 2022).

7 Plaintiffs voluntarily and intentionally relinquished the right to bring a medical negligence
8 claim by expressly stating that their “common law claim is for medical battery, not negligence,”
9 Pls.’ Revised Mem. at 21, making clear that (1) they bring only one common law claim, (2) that 10 it is for medical battery, and (3) that it is not for negligence. This waiver is clearer than that in 11 Morgan v. Hays, 102 Ariz. 150, 155, 426 P.2d 647, 652 (Ariz. 1967), where the Arizona Supreme
12 Court affirmed that a plaintiff

13
15 by making a claim for Workmen’s Compensation benefits and continuing to 16 accept the same with full knowledge of his legal rights and with full knowledge
17 of the legal conditions precedent to a suit against his employer, waived any right
18 . . . to file any claim in this Court against his employer.

19 Where a waiver is clear and explicit, a court should enforce it without any further
20 showing. See Mohave Cty. v. Mohave-Kingman Estates, Inc., 120 Ariz. 417, 421, 586 P.2d 978, 982
21 (Ariz. 1978) (“There is some authority in Arizona for the proposition that a waiver . . . must
22 be supported by consideration or at least by the equivalent of estoppel. Later cases, however,
23 have continually emphasized the intentional relinquishment aspect of waiver without mention
24 of consideration.”); Wells-Stewart Constr. Co. v. Gen. Ins. Co. of Am., 10 Ariz. App. 590, 593, 461
25 P.2d 98, 101 (Ariz. Ct. App. 1969) (“The essential element in the defense of waiver is the 26 voluntary and intentional relinquishment of a known right.”).

1           Moreover, it is improper for a party to raise an issue for the first time in a reply brief.
2       See Ariz. R. Civ. P. 7.1(a)(3). A court may “disregard” issues raised for the first time in reply.
3       Camelback Contractors, Inc. v. Indus. Comm’n, 125 Ariz. 205, 208, 608 P.2d 782, 785 (Ariz. Ct.
4       App. 1980).

5
6           Accordingly, Plaintiffs waived their medical negligence claim by expressly disavowing
7       it in their opening brief, and the Court should disregard their attempt to revive it in their reply
8       brief.

9
10       II. In Any Event, Plaintiffs Cannot Prevail on a Medical Negligence Claim
11       Because They Have Failed to Provide Competent Evidence to Establish the 12       Necessary Elements.

13           Unlike claims of medical battery, claims of medical negligence are subject to Arizona’s
14       Medical Malpractice Act. See A.R.S. §§ 12-561 – 12-573; Duncan v. Scottsdale Med. Imaging, Ltd.,
15       205 Ariz. 306, 309 ¶ 9, 70 P.3d 435, 439 (2003); Defs.’ Resp. Mem. at 14 & n.7. Pursuant to 16       that statute, a party asserting medical negligence must prove both that (1) “[t]he health care
17       provider failed to exercise that degree of care, skill and learning expected of a reasonable,
18       prudent health care provider in the profession or class to which he belongs within the state
19       acting in the same or similar circumstances” and that (2) “[s]uch failure was a proximate cause
20       of the injury.” A.R.S. § 12-563. The Arizona Supreme Court has held that a party asserting 21       medical negligence must provide expert testimony on causation except in rare cases where 22       causation is “readily apparent.” Sampson v. Surgery Ctr. of Peoria, LLC, 251 Ariz. 308, 311 ¶ 13,
23       491 P.3d 1115, 1118 (Ariz. 2021); see Defs.’ Mot. for Summ. J. & Mem. of Law (“Defs.’ Mem.”)
24       at 14-15. Further, Arizona law provides that, in a medical negligence case, “a person shall not 25       give expert testimony on the appropriate standard of practice or care” unless certain criteria
26       are met. A.R.S. § 12-2604(A). Those criteria include that the putative expert practices in the 27
28

1 same specialty as the practitioner accused of negligence. A.R.S. § 12-2604(A)(1-2); see Defs.’
2 Mem. at 12-13.

3           Plaintiffs have failed to establish the necessary elements of medical negligence through 4 competent evidence. Discovery has now closed, and the only medical expert proffered by 5 Plaintiffs—Dr. Eric Hazelrigg—does not specialize in abortion care and, indeed, has never
6 provided abortion care or obtained a patient’s informed consent to abortion. See Defs.’
7 Statement of Facts in Supp. of Mot. for Summ. J. (“Defs.’ SOF”) at ¶ 17. Thus, Dr. Hazelrigg
8 is statutorily barred from testifying about the standard of care for obtaining a patient’s
9 informed consent to abortion. See A.R.S. § 12-2604(A)(1-2). That bar precludes Dr. Hazelrigg
10 from testifying, for example, about whether Defendants adequately informed the Patient of 11 “[t]he immediate and long-term medical risks associated with the procedure that a reasonable 12 patient would consider material to the decision of whether or not to undergo the abortion,”
13 in accordance with A.R.S. § 36-2153(A)(1)(c).
14

17           Likewise, Dr. Hazelrigg is statutorily barred from testifying about whether Defendants’
18 alleged failure to satisfy the standard of care is the proximate cause of Plaintiffs’ alleged 19 injuries. See A.R.S. § 12-2604(A)(1-2). This is for good reason: Having no experience
20 obtaining patients’ informed consent to abortion, Dr. Hazelrigg has no basis on which to opine
21 that providing additional information would have led to the Patient to decline abortion care.
22 See Defs.’ Mem. at 13-15; Defs.’ Resp. Mem. at 13-14. And given the Patient’s clear and 23 consistent testimony that she would have chosen to terminate her pregnancy even if forced to 24 receive additional information, see Defs.’ SOF at ¶ 21, proximate cause is not readily apparent.
25
26

27           Because Plaintiffs have failed to provide competent evidence to establish the necessary
28 elements of a medical negligence claim, even if not waived, their medical negligence claim

1 would fail as a matter of law. See Orme Sch. v. Reeves, 166 Ariz. 301, 309, 802 P.2d 1000, 1008
2 (Ariz. 1990) (holding that a motion for summary judgment “should be granted if the facts
3 produced in support of the claim or defense have so little probative value, given the quantum
4 of evidence required, that reasonable people could not agree with the conclusion advanced by 5 the proponent of the claim or defense.” (citations omitted)).
6

7 CONCLUSION

8 For the reasons set forth above and in Defendants’ prior briefing, the Court should 9 grant Defendants’ motion for summary judgment and deny Plaintiffs’ cross-motion for 10 summary judgment.
